Discover the story behind the stories of some of New Zealand's most talented authors.

A former psychologist, Helen McNeil tells her stories with insight and compassion. She writes about ordinary people dealing with the questions many of us struggle with.

Helen McNeil, A Striking Truth

The forces of globalisation versus local community are explored in this novel set against the backdrop of the 1986 Tasman Pulp and Paper strike and told from the perspective of five fictionalised characters. Helen witnessed firsthand the devastating affect the strike had on Kawerau and met with key players on both sides of the conflict to research her book.
